ABOUT THE CANADIAN WOMEN'S FOUNDATION

The Canadian Women's Foundation is a national leader in the movement for gender equality in Canada. Through funding, research, advocacy, and knowledge sharing, we work to achieve systemic change. We support women, girls, and gender-diverse people to move out of violence, out of poverty, and into confidence and leadership. Since 1991, our generous donors and supporters have contributed more than $130 million to fund over 2,500 life-transforming programs throughout Canada.

The Canadian Women's Foundation aims to be inclusive of diverse people across gender and sexuality spectrums. We focus our efforts on supporting those who face the most barriers and have least access to relevant services. This includes people who identify as women, girls, Two Spirit, trans, genderqueer, and non-binary, and 2SLGBTQI+.

OUR APPROACH TO FUNDING

The Canadian Women's Foundation prioritizes inclusion and addressing barriers to access. Our vision of gender equality for all in our grant-making is expressed in our prioritization of women, girls, Two Spirit, trans, and non-binary peoples who face multiple challenges.

“Until all of us have made it, none of us have made it”

Rosemary Brown

Founding Mother, Canadian Women's Foundation

In recognition of the long histories and ongoing effects of colonization, racism, violence and exclusion, the Canadian Women's Foundation has increased our focus on the following communities:

- ✓ First Nations, Métis, and Inuit women, girls, Two Spirit, trans, and non-binary peoples
- ✓ Black women, girls, Two Spirit, trans, and non-binary peoples
- ✓ Women, girls, Two Spirit, trans, and non-binary peoples living with disabilities
- ✓ Two Spirit, lesbian, gay, bisexual, trans, queer, questioning, intersex, pansexual, androgynous, and asexual (2SLGBTQI+) peoples

ABOUT ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT GRANTS

Economic Development grants will support organizations offering programs for women, Two Spirit, trans, and non-binary people in one of four areas:

- Self-Employment and Business Acceleration
- Workplace Navigation and Inclusion
- Trades and Technology
- Networks Grants

The size of the grants can be up to a maximum of $65,000 annually for 4 years. The Foundation anticipates investing in 10 programs. The selection process will attempt to ensure that the range of funded programs is geographically representative of the total group of applicants and serves diverse populations of women and Two Spirit, trans, and non-binary people.

Please note that we will only accept one application from an organization for a multi-year economic development grant. Proposals will be considered from organizations that can demonstrate success in improving economic outcomes for participants.

The Foundation uses the Sustainable Livelihoods model¹ to frame its economic development grant-making work. The purpose of our grants in this area is to invest in programs that work with communities working in the early stages of the Sustainable Livelihoods Framework.² We understand that programs and organizations may work with individuals who move back and forth through the early stages, and that individual economic journeys are not linear.

For more information, please watch Sustainable Livelihoods Framework for Women Webinar and read more at canadianwomen.org.

OVERALL ELIGIBILITY FOR ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT GRANTS

Applicants must be incorporated non-profit organizations and have a valid charitable number from Canada Revenue Agency or be a First Nations Band designated as a qualified donee by Canada Revenue Agency.

If your organization does not have charitable status or is not a qualified donee, we can consider an application in partnership with another organization that is a registered charity with a mandate relevant to your proposal. The other organization's volunteer Board of Directors will have fiscal responsibility for the grant and be legally responsible for ensuring that the funds are spent for the

¹ The Sustainable Livelihoods model was originally developed at the University of Sussex in the United Kingdom. The model has been adapted for economic development work with women in Canada and is based on an approach that builds the assets (social, financial, physical, human, and personal) required to develop a sustainable livelihood. Working in partnership with grantees and funding partners, the evaluators will design and implement a formal multi-year evaluation strategy. For more information, please read "Women in Transition Out of Poverty: An Asset-Based Approach to Building Sustainable Livelihoods" found on the Foundation's website: www.canadianwomen.org

² "The Sustainable Livelihoods framework is based upon the concept that women are vulnerable to poverty and social exclusion when they have a limited range of assets. Assets are the building blocks of a sustainable livelihood. When women are supported to create the conditions for economic participation, they can build their assets and gradually begin to transition out of poverty and towards a sustainable livelihood, which we define as "long-term financial security." At this point, their livelihood is sustainable over the long-term because they have developed a strong foundation of assets, making them much less vulnerable to falling back into poverty."

charitable purposes intended. They will be required to sign a letter of agreement and work in partnership with the organization delivering the project.
